

Supplementary material

Stelmachowska-Banaś M, Maksymowicz M, Kolasińska-Ćwikła A, et al. Pituitary carcinoma as a rare cause of liver metastases successfully treated with temozolomide. Pol Arch Intern Med. 2022; 132: 16178. doi:10.20452/pamw.16178

Please note that the journal is not responsible for the scientific accuracy or functionality of any supplementary material submitted by the authors. Any queries (except missing content) should be directed to the corresponding author of the article.

Figure S1. A) Histopathological image of pituitary neuroendocrine tumour, surgery in 2014 (hematoxylin&eosin staining). B) Positive immunohistochemical staining for adrenocorticotrophic hormone. C) Pituitary neuroendocrine tumour, surgery in 2015 (hematoxylin&eosin staining). D) Positive immunohistochemical staining for transcription factor T-Pit in pituitary tumour. E) Ultrastructural features of Crooke's cell from a pituitary tumour. F) Histological image of liver metastasis biopsy (hematoxylin&eosin staining).